

This photograph was taken in Nash County. The two workers walking the field are checking to make sure that the seedlings have been properly planted.

They each carry a stick and extra seedlings which can be planted by hand if a hole is missed.

Behind the green plants on the tractor sit a row of workers who are riding along and hand-feeding the seedlings into a machine that plants them.